

ReTeFi

Network of Puppet Theatre
Museums of Emilia-Romagna

A journey to discover the Puppet

ReTeFi was born as a network project between eight historical and contemporary puppet theater museums in Emilia-Romagna to promote the rich regional heritage, uniting differences and territories.

A heritage to be preserved

More than 50.000 pieces

Nowadays, the network hosts 5662 marionettes, puppets, pupi and shadow puppets; 2200 sets for marionettes and puppet theater; 815 scripts many of which from the nineteenth century, and manuscripts; 1750 costumes for puppets and marionettes; 6870 thematic publications; 34623 documents including posters, announcements, censures, tour documents; 590 props.

The logo

Eight geometric shapes combine to give life to the Puppet, in the lucky encounter between technical and artistic invention, between craftsmanship and aesthetics that has always characterized this type of art. The colors radiate from green, the symbolic color of the Emilia-Romagna region, with the addition of a dark red that symbolizes the strength and passion behind this project, and that meets with green to underline the national value, and not only regional, which the network aspires to have.

The memorandum of understanding

Nel 2020 gli otto musei aderenti stipulano un protocollo d'intesa che stabilisce gli obiettivi e le finalità della rete, così come le modalità per poter entrare a far parte di essa. In questo documento, con il quale la rete si presenta alla Regione e al Servizio Patrimonio Regionale, sono descritti la struttura del progetto, la sua durata e le modalità di comunicazione e promozione adottate dalla rete.

A regional itinerary in eight stops...

Piacenza

Spazio Luzzati

The artistic partnership with Lele Luzzati gave rise to several shows of Teatro Gioco Vita and prestigious opportunities for collaboration, starting with the first creation of the shadow theater "Il Barone di Münchausen" (1978). The project takes up the experience of the exhibition/show by Teatro Gioco Vita "A world of shadow figures - Homage to Lele Luzzati" made for the first time in Piacenza in 1994/1995 and resumed in various Italian cities (including Ferrara, Genoa, Milan, Modena, and Rome), as well as in France, Portugal, and Spain. But Spazio Luzzati is much more. In addition to the materials relating to the shadow shows that we have created with him since 1978, there are the creations that Lele has donated for the exhibitions and activities in the Piacenza area: posters, playbills, drawings, models. An original, unique, and precious heritage, enhanced in a permanent and accessible place.

MAF Centro di Documentazione del Mondo Agricolo Ferrarese

The MAF is an ethnographic museum based in San Bartolomeo in Bosco, a hamlet of Ferrara. Various aspects of the world of the Ferrara and Po countryside in general between the end of the 19th century and the first half of the 20th century, from agricultural mechanization to the rural house, from activities in the village to fruit growing, from popular devotion to itinerant trades, from childhood games to work cycles are faithfully reconstructed in specially remodeled rooms. Two puppeteers' ateliers, owned by the Ferrara municipality, have been set up in a specific section during the mid-1980s, and constitute the first organic exhibition experience linked to the Puppet Theater in an Emilia-Romagna ethnographic museum. Specifically, these are puppets, theaters, backdrops, props, clothes, canvases and scripts by the puppeteers of the Bolognese school, Ettore Forni and Pompeo Gandolfi. Since 2005, the MAF has been awarded the National Prize "Ribalte di Fantasia" for unpublished scripts of the Puppet Theater, founded in 1988 by the Theater Setaccio Puppets and Marionettes by Otello Sarzi and by the magazine "Il Cantastorie", directed by Giorgio Vezzani.

Museo dei Burattini Leo Preti

Crevalcore (BO)

Defined as the "smallest puppet museum in the world", the Leo Preti Museum in Crevalcore includes a hundred masks, devils, animals, wizards, witches, fairies and ladies, produced by the Crevalcorese puppeteer Leo Preti and a rich collection of backdrops, many of which the work of Otello Giovanoli. Following the family tradition inaugurated in the early decades of the 1800s by the forefather Giulio, the Crevalcorese Leo Preti (1903 - 1969) soon became a skilled puppeteer. Active in the squares of much of Emilia, he was able to arouse the enthusiasm of young and old everywhere with wooden heads while his wife Guglielma, who had learned the trade from him, dedicated herself to the creation of costumes. Particular attention should be paid to the Pavironica family, formed by the irreplaceable Sandrone, Pulonia and Sgurgheguèl, who skilfully animated by puppeteers in ever new stories have contributed to making this form of entertainment a real cultural tradition still alive today. On May 15, 2021, a new exhibition was inaugurated, created with the co-financing of the Emilia-Romagna Region.

Museo La Casa delle Marionette

Il Museo La casa delle Marionette è situato nel cuore della città di Ravenna e custodisce la preziosa Collezione Monticelli, un insieme di materiali di spettacolo appartenenti alla tradizione italiana del teatro di marionette e burattini a partire dal 1840. La Famiglia Monticelli, in arte Teatro de Drago, è uno dei custodi dell'arte del Teatro di Figura del nostro Paese: grazie a cinque generazioni ininterrotte di teatranti, oggi si può ammirare una collezione composta da 63 marionette, 150 burattini, 132 scenografie, 150 copioni manoscritti e numeroso materiale di tournée. Teatro del Drago, oltre a custodire i segreti del teatro tradizionale, è anche ideatore e promotore di iniziative sempre nuove per rinnovare e far crescere il desiderio di conoscenza sia dei più piccoli che degli adulti. La Casa delle Marionette organizza visite guidate alle collezioni, spettacoli di burattini tradizionali dell'Emilia-Romagna, laboratori di costruzione di burattini, marionette, pupazzi e materiali scenografici, corsi di aggiornamento per insegnanti sul teatro di figura e percorsi tematici tra le attività che rendono vivo questo piccolo Museo di spettacolo.

MET Museo degli Usi e Costumi della Gente di Romagna

Santarcangelo
di Romagna

Ferdinando Nicola Salici was the forefather of the Salici-Stignani family, born around 1840 in Menaggio, a small town on Lake Como. He had nine children, including Enrico, who collected the real heirloom of the puppets and left his father's company to found the "Fantocci Lirici" company. His sister Luigia agreed to join Stignani marrying Giovanni Stignani, and founded the Teatro Minimo Salici-Stignani. The string puppets became "burattette", puppets moved from below through a wood stick. The company retired in 1974 and left Tinin Mantegazza a collection of over 300 pieces with marionettes, glove puppets and burattette, as well as field objects and backdrops. After many years the ethnographic museum of Santarcangelo will be available to preserve the heritage and be able to use it. A peculiarity of this collection are the puppets' clothes, made between the mid-nineteenth and early twentieth centuries with precious new or recycled fabrics, and with great attention to detail.
